TEACHING EXPERIENCE

St. Joseph's College at the University of Alberta (Edmonton, AB)

The Philosophy of Augustine, Winter 2023

Arranged to teach a third-year undergraduate Philosophy course on the writings of Augustine of Hippo, organized around a range of themes including: the philosophy of time, the influence of Neoplatonism, and modern attempts to revive 'Augustinian' thought for a new age.

MacEwan University (Edmonton, AB)

Mysticism & Gender, Winter 2021 – Present

Outlined a new senior-level seminar on the relationship between mystical rhetoric and gender politics in the history of religion, with a special focus on the visionary voices of medieval women. Readings include Hildegard of Bingen, Hadewijch, & Marguerite Porete.

Death & Dying in the Ancient Mediterranean World, Fall 2020

Conducted a senior-level directed reading course on the shifting attitudes toward mortality and burial practices in the Mediterranean world during later antiquity. Relevant areas of inquiry included approaches to death in Greek epic, Mesopotamian myth, & Roman-era philosophy.

History of Christianity, Fall 2019 – Present

Built from scratch a third-year course on the history of global Christianities from the first century through the fifteenth. Incorporated topics ranging from the New Testament, Ethiopian Christianity, and Manichaeism to Latin Averroism, mysticism, and questions of gender.

Secrets of Early Christianity, Fall 2018 – Present

Built from scratch a fourth-year seminar on the question of ‘apocryphal’ texts (broadly construed) in the first few centuries of Christian culture. Challenged categories of orthodoxy, heterodoxy, and gnosis via readings of the Apostolic Fathers and the Nag Hammadi codices.

Religion, Science, and Superstition in Medieval Europe, Fall 2018

Conducted a senior-level directed reading course on the contested boundaries separating licit from illicit ways of knowing in Western Europe during the Middle Ages. Relevant areas of inquiry included alchemy, astrology, naturopathy, necromancy, and theophagy.

Introduction to Judaism, Christianity, & Islam, Fall 2018 – Present

Inaugurated, for the first time at MacEwan, a second-year survey of the intertwined lineages of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, with a focus on late antiquity and the Middle Ages. Readings were drawn from the Scriptures and authoritative theological texts of all three traditions.

Comparative Mysticism: Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Winter 2018

Designed a third-year topics course interrogating the category of ‘mysticism’ as applied to Jewish, Christian, and Islamic texts from the medieval period. Authors included Hildegard of Bingen, Hadewijch, Marguerite Porete, Ibn ‘Arabi, & the Zohar.

Witchcraft & Gender in the Late Middle Ages & Early Modernity, Winter 2018

Conducted a senior-level thesis course on major witchcraft treatises from the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, including the Malleus Maleficarum and Tinctore’s anti-Waldensian tract. Methodological readings provided an intersectional dimension to our reappraisal of these texts.

Humans, Nature, & the Divine, Winter 2018 – Present

Invited second-year students to consider the diversity of ways in which relations between divinity, humankind, and the natural (animal) world have been imagined and reimagined throughout history. Readings included Gilgamesh, Genesis, Augustine, Aquinas, & Locke.

Women’s Voices in Medieval Christianity, Fall 2017

Constructed a senior-level directed reading course on the interventions made by women authors during the Middle Ages, ranging from Christine de Pizan to Julian of Norwich. Special attention was paid to Christian mysticism as a medium for medieval women’s voices.

Medieval Foundations of Early Modern Political Theory, Winter 2017

Conducted a senior-level thesis course on seminal works in political theory, ranging from the thirteenth through early seventeenth centuries. Authors included Dante, Christine de Pizan, Marsilius of Padua, Nicholas of Cusa, Thomas More, and King James I.

Time in Antiquity, Winter 2017

Built from scratch a fourth-year undergraduate seminar on the theme of temporality in the ancient and medieval worlds. Topics included scientific, philosophical, and religious notions of time in certain pre-modern contexts, as well as the emergence of historical consciousness.

Foundations of the Modern World Before 1500 CE, Winter 2017 – Present

Taught an expansive yet substantive survey of global history between the years 500 and 1500 CE. Digital tools—for mapping, timeline-building, and text analysis—enhanced our study alongside methodologies drawn from social, political, intellectual, and material history.

Humanism, Fall 2016 – Present

As part of a pilot project in the interdisciplinary Humanities, guided students through a collection of great works drawn from the global canon of the liberal arts. Authors included Aeschylus, Plato, Ibn Tufayl, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, and Mary Shelley.

Medieval European History, Fall 2016 – Present

Conducted a survey on the European Middle Ages, stretching from the waning of late antiquity to the crisis moments of the fourteenth century. Digital resources brought students into closer contact with still-relevant social and religious questions posed by this period.

Renaissance and Reformation History, Fall 2016 – Present

Led a blended course on Europe in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, with a special focus on the connections between humanism and early modern theology. Assignment design engaged students in active learning about this period through presentations and sustained discussion.

Saint Xavier University (Chicago, IL)

The Examined Life, Fall 2015 – Spring 2016

Served as a stand-alone instructor for two concurrent sections of an introductory course in philosophy and the liberal arts, centered on Plato's Apology and Augustine's Confessions.

The University of Chicago (Chicago, IL)

Undergraduate Program in Religious Studies – BA Preceptor, Fall 2015 – Spring 2016

Guided senior undergraduates through the process of writing their final BA thesis, especially through seminars targeted at composition skills and research methodologies.

Graham School – Instructor in the Basic Program, Fall 2015 – Spring 2016

Led seminars as part of a broad liberal arts curriculum for continuing students, which reaches from Plato, Sophocles, and Euripides to Shakespeare, Swift, and Darwin.

Classics of Social & Political Thought I-III – Lecturer, Fall 2014 – Spring 2016

Served as a stand-alone lecturer for a three-quarter undergraduate course on political theory from Plato, Aristotle, and Aquinas to Mill, Marx, and King.

Classics of Social & Political Thought I-III – Teaching Intern, Fall 2013 – Spring 2014

Helped conduct seminars and grade papers for a three-quarter undergraduate course on political theory from the ancients and Machiavelli to Rousseau, Tocqueville, and Du Bois. Prepared and led sessions on Aquinas, Hobbes, Nietzsche, and Du Bois.

Introduction to the Study of Religion – Teaching Assistant, Fall 2013

Conducted discussion sections and assisted in the assignment of grades for a course aimed at introducing M.A. students to the interaction between theory and method in religious studies.

History of Christian Thought I – Teaching Assistant, Winter 2013

Conducted discussion groups and assisted in the assignment of grades for a course covering the history and theology of early Christianity from the first century to the fifth.

TEACHING TRAINING

MacEwan University, Edmonton, AB

Faculty Development via the Centre for the Advancement of Faculty Excellence.

Participated in New Faculty Orientation, a year-long sequence of sessions focused on the pedagogical practices that work best at a teaching-first institution like MacEwan. Annually attended Faculty Development Day to stay up to date with new course designs.

The University of Chicago, Chicago, IL

Certificate in the Craft of Teaching in the Academic Study of Religion, Spring 2014.

Completed the requirements for the Divinity School's certification in religious studies pedagogy, which included: an intensive syllabus workshop; a multi-day, university-wide pedagogy seminar; and a number of more targeted training events.

University of Chicago Writing Program Training, Spring 2014.

Trained in the pedagogical methods and compositional strategies of the University of Chicago Writing Program, which helps undergraduates develop writing skills through seminars attached to their Humanities courses.

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

MacEwan University, Edmonton, AB

Research Manager for the Teaching-Related Student Research Assistantship, 2021
Supervising a student-driven research project funded by a grant from the Humanities Department at MacEwan University. The project, which involves both virtual pedagogy & the digital humanities, aims to refine the video lectures I crafted for my HIST & HUMN courses.

Research Manager for the Undergraduate Student Research Initiative, 2020 – 2021
Supervising a student-driven research project funded by a $2940 grant from the Office of Research Services at MacEwan University. The project, which involves both traditional scholarship & the digital humanities, is called: “Gender, Death, & Dying in Medieval Europe.”

Principal Investigator for the Digital Humanities Feedback Project, 2016 –
Leading a multi-year statistical project measuring undergraduate feedback regarding assignment designs informed by digital pedagogy (e.g., maps, timelines, quantitative textual analysis).
Received Research Ethics Board approval for the tracking & visualization of feedback data.

The University of Chicago, Chicago, IL

Institutional Data Intern at UChicagoGRAD, 2015 – 2016
Strengthened institutional ties with alumni through social media, built fresh datasets through online research, and used data-tuning to integrate results with preexisting databases in order to better inform administrative strategies for producing competitive PhD outcomes.

125th Departmental Histories Fellow, Summer 2015
Built faculty and alumni databases, acted as a departmental liaison, and created visual products commemorating the anniversary of the University of Chicago and its Divinity School.
