readiness for seminars	3.44		Maybe it is useful for second-year students, but for me, it was just 'read a few new stories' Also, the final project took quite a lot of time This course was one of the most interesting that I took during the whole four years of studying, and I really regret that I missed some of the lectures, as every time I came it was so nice to talk to Kate and to listen to some very interesting insights. I like the way the course is structured - weekly reading journals helped me to stay on the same page with the rest of the group even if somehow I wasn't present at the lectures. Special thanks for giving us an opportunity to be creative throughout the course (especially on the final project - this, for sure, was the most interesting and beautiful project I've made during these four years). Although the course is simple, but I really liked it for its ease.	06.05.2022

clarity of student requirements	4.72		Kate is a very nice woman. But her course is pretty boring. I think she needs to be a little tougher. For example, make attendance mandatory and include it in the final evaluation formula. I would like Kate to teach some other course. I gave 5 for 'communicating with the audience', but I think you should know that it's 10 out of 5 for me. I am a very shy person and it's really hard for me to talk in English (even though I think that I am quite good at the language). But the way Kate encourages all students made it so easy to start a discussion during each lecture. The way how understanding and caring Kate is looks like a perfect example of a teacher for me. Apart from that, I really appreciated the very thoughtful comments she gave us as a responses for our home tasks. Almost every time it included some references and sources we should also see to understand the topic better. I really loved this course, and that's on you, Kate, so thank you!	02.05.2022
