This course introduces you to Native American religions and Native American religious history. As such, this class is taught from both a religious studies perspective and a historical perspective. We will be investigating various Native American religions and analyzing the interactions between Native American groups and between Native Americans and Euro-Americans.

This course is organized with three themes in mind—those being perspective, power, and persistence. The typical telling of American history casts Native Americans either agency-less victims or simply pushes them to the background. Therefore, beginning the course with attention to Native American perspectives reorients our narrative. We’ll investigate sovereignty, colonialism, and indigenous identity/culture. Power is the second thematic section for the course and will be used broadly to include politics, conflict, kinship/community, and Christian conversion. Power creates a language that best explains native conversions to Christianity and native conflict with Christianity and Euro-Americans. And Persistence combats the typical story of American religious history more generally. Native Americans today are relatively absent from popular culture outside stereotypical portrayals, and persistence notes how they combated Euro-American imperial perspectives.

World/Comparative Religion Core Course Learning Outcomes

1. Students will identify the sacred texts, traditions, and theological developments of one or more religious communities, attentive to insider perspectives, debates, and scholarly methods of analysis.

2. Students will categorize the theological language in one or more traditions concerning, for example, images of the divine or sacred, religious art, the human condition and liberation, sex and gender, community, worship, practice and ritual, ethical responsibility, and marginality, attending to intercultural competence and human diversity in the study of religion.

3. Students will evaluate the potential of religious teachings and practices to both empower and suppress social justice in the cultural contexts of human life.

Native American Studies Learning Outcomes

1. Recognition that Native American arts (fine arts, literature, music, drama, film, material culture objects) and cultural practices illustrate individual and tribal identities, and also represent acts of cultural sovereignty.

2. Thorough comprehension of tribal homelands as locations of Native American spirituality, identity, culture, and sovereignty.

How to Succeed in this Course

1) Come to class, arrive on time, and stay for the entire meeting. Make-up quizzes will only be offered for documented University approved activities, major illness (doctor’s note), or family emergencies.

2) Regularly check your email. I frequently email about grades, housekeeping issues, and more.

3) Complete assigned readings, in their entirety, on schedule. Engage with your reading. Consider coming to class with 3 Qs about the reading (a rich quote to unpack, a discussion question for the class, and a quandary that the reading left with you.) And bring the readings to class.

4) Contribute to class discussions. You should come to class with questions and comments, prepared to participate in a lively discussion.
5) Complete all assignments, in a timely manner. Due dates are firm but I allow requested extensions if requested 12 hours before due date. Otherwise late papers will be deducted a full letter grade for every day it is late.
6) Ask for help when you need it. I am happy to assist you in your attempts to master course materials and successfully complete course assignments (Really, I am). Come to my office hours and I am always available via email.

Course Policies

RESPECT FOR MATERIAL, OUR SUBJECTS, AND YOUR PEERS
This course is not confessional in nature; that is, we are not here to promote a particular religious viewpoint or to debate religious “truth.” Rather, we will be engaging religious materials in order to understand their meanings for the people who have produced and used them. You may have your own religious commitment; if so, throughout this course you will likely encounter opinions and religious beliefs and activities with which you do not agree. This does not make them unworthy of your study, consideration, and respect. I ask you to imagine yourself in the shoes of someone else whose practices and beliefs may differ from your own and yet carry immense meaning and value for that person. Furthermore, you will be expected to communicate in a civil manner at all times, both in and out of the classroom. This means that interactions are to be carried out in a polite, courteous, and dignified way. Treat your peers and the subject material with respect.

COURSE POLICY ON RACE AND ETHNICITY
This class and classroom is one that respects and welcomes each other. Many of my classes cover topics related to race, colonialism, religion, and racism. These conversations and readings are difficult for some students, and I encourage you to live in that space of productive discomfort and allow yourself to be challenged. Gonzaga’s Mission Statement emphasizes a commitment to intercultural competence, diversity, and social justice. Let’s live that mission in the classroom. Through these sometimes-uncomfortable conversations, we will learn and grow together.

PLAGIARISM POLICY
I do not tolerate plagiarism or cheating. We are an intellectual and academic community, and all of us are responsible to act with integrity. All violations of the Gonzaga Academic Honesty Policy will result in a zero on the assignment. Plagiarism is the act of passing another's work off as your own. Whether intentional or not, all plagiarized assignments will receive a zero. If you have questions or concerns about plagiarism, consult the guide on blackboard. Click here for more on Academic Citizenship at Gonzaga.

SCREEN POLICY
You are welcome to use your computer or tablet in class to take notes and refer to pdf readings you did not print out. Screens are not to be allowed for other purposes during class. If you have your screen open, you have agreed that I can cold-call on you at any time. The only exceptions to this rule are those with relevant disability accommodations.

DISABILITY ACCESS POLICY
Students with disabilities who need academic accommodations should:
1. Register with and provide documentation to the Disability Access.
2. Bring a letter to me from the Disability Access Office indicating the need for accommodation and what type. This should be done within the first two weeks of class. The sooner I know, the sooner we can work together.
For more information about services available to GU students with disabilities, contact: disability@gonzaga.edu; 313-4134.

ATTENDANCE POLICY
According to the Gonzaga University attendance policy, if you miss more than 6 class meetings (so 7 or more), you will receive a “V” for this class, which is the same as a “F.” I do enforce the attendance policy because attendance is necessary for success in a reading and discussion-based course.

RELIGIOUS ACCOMMODATIONS FOR STUDENTS
“In compliance with Washington State law (RCW 28.10.039), it is the policy of Gonzaga University to reasonably accommodate students who, due to the observance of religious holidays, expect to be absent or endure a significant hardship during certain days of their academic course or program. The Policy on Religious Accommodations for Students describes procedures for students requesting a Religious Accommodation and for faculty responding to such a request.”
A NOTE ON HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION AND SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

Consistent with its mission, Gonzaga seeks to assure all community members learn and work in a welcoming and inclusive environment. Title VII, Title IX and Gonzaga’s policy prohibit harassment, discrimination and sexual misconduct. Gonzaga encourages anyone experiencing harassment, discrimination or sexual misconduct to talk to someone from the Campus and Local Resources list found in Gonzaga’s Harassment and Non-Discrimination Policy.

As a faculty member, I want get you connected to the resources here on campus specially trained in and experienced in assisting in such complaints, and therefore I will report all incidents of gender-based harassment, discrimination and sexual misconduct to Title IX. A representative from that office will reach out to you via phone and/or email to explore options for support, safety measures and reporting. I will provide our Title IX Director with all relevant details, including names and identifying information, of the information reported. For more information about policies and resources or reporting options, please visit the following websites: Equity and Inclusion and Title IX.

If you would like to directly make a report of harassment, discrimination or sexual misconduct directly, you may contact our Title IX coordinator (Stephanie Whaley; 509-313-6910; Business Services Building 018; whaleys@gonzaga.edu). For more information about policies and resources or reporting options, please visit our Title IX website or the website for Equity and Inclusion. My office is a safe space but I am legally required to report sexual misconduct.

Assignments and Grading

1) Reading Quizzes. There will be 22 pop quizzes each worth 10 points. These quizzes will cover the day’s reading assignment. At the end of the semester your two lowest quiz grades will be dropped and your total quiz score determined from the remaining quizzes. Make up quizzes will only be offered for students with excused (documented) absences. Worth 200 points.

2) News Media Comparison. You’ll compare the news reporting between a Native American news source and a “mainstream” news source. Worth 100 points. (A general rubric for essays in this class is on blackboard in the Prompts/Guides area.)

3) Academic Book Review. You will write an academic style book review of one of our three non-fiction books. The due dates are different for them, so either pick the book that speaks to you more or the book that works better with your schedule. Worth 175 points.

4) Perspective Paper. A 1000-word essay answering the question: What is at stake in our perspective when studying Native American religions and cultures? A full prompt is on blackboard. Worth 150 points. (A general rubric for essays in this class is on blackboard in the Prompts/Guides area.)

5) Final Essay. You will create a narrative of Native American religions by selecting the three most significant persons, groups, trends, communities, and/or events from the course. Worth 250 points.

5) In-Class Participation: The least boring and most effective way to learn is to participate fully in the process. You are expected to contribute to the success of this course by: Reading the assigned materials, attending every class, taking notes, listening respectfully, staying on task, and actively contributing to class discussions. Worth 125 points. (A rubric for class participation is on blackboard in the Prompts/Guides area.)
