Call for Panels, 1987 Convention

The 19th National Convention of the AAASS, hosted by the New England Slavic Association, will be held November 5-8, 1987 at the Park Plaza Hotel, Boston.

Proposals must be for complete panels; individual papers cannot be considered. Proposals should be sent to the appropriate committee member (see below) with a copy to the chair; those which do not fall within any of the fields assigned to committee members should be directed to the chair. Deadline for receipt of all proposals: January 1, 1987.

All proposals must provide the name of the panel; the titles of all papers; the names, full addresses, and telephone numbers of all participants (including chair, discussants, etc.); and a statement from the panel organizer certifying that all individuals listed have agreed to participate in the panel. No more than three papers may be presented in a panel, and no more than five participants in a roundtable. No participant may be listed more than once in a given panel or roundtable, present more than one paper, or appear more than twice in the convention program.

Please note: All panelists, with the exception of foreign guests and invited participants who are not in the Soviet/East European field, must be current AAASS members; all panelists are required to register at the convention.

BRITISH DOCUMENTS ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS: Reports and Papers from the Foreign Office Confidential Print
RUSSIA AND THE SOVIET UNION

General Editors
KENNETH BOURNE and D. CAMERON WATT

The publication of a large-scale edition of selections from the Foreign Office Confidential Print, under the supervision of Kenneth Bourne and D. Cameron Watt, is exciting news for historians, for these papers will not only throw valuable new light on the relations between the Foreign Office and its missions abroad but are bound to be an extraordinary source of information about political, economic, and social conditions in the countries where such missions were located.

—Dr. Gordon A. Craig
Stanford University
Past President, AHA

The documents in the six volumes of Russia, 1859—1914 focus on conditions throughout the Russian Empire from the mid-nineteenth century to the onset of World War I. In particular, the discussion of Russian internal politics is exhaustive. For example, 506 documents cover the period of revolution from January 1905 to June 1907, with much attention paid to Bloody Sunday, widespread outbreaks of revolutionary violence and anarchy, and the deeper social forces behind the revolutionary movements. Throughout the volumes there are also lengthy reports on the Russian economy, the pogroms of the 1880s, military affairs, and foreign affairs, with emphasis on Russia's role in the growing European crisis that culminated in the Great War.

Because of a break in the normal classification of the Confidential Print caused by the First World War, the six volumes of Russia, 1859—1914 are followed by The Soviet Union, 1917—1939, which contains fifteen volumes. (The years that are not covered in these two “area” series will be the subject of a separate series entitled The First World War.) The fifteen volumes have been divided into three subsseries of five volumes each. The first covers the crucial period 1917—1921: the years of two Russian revolutions, the Soviet peace treaty with Germany, the Allied intervention, the civil war between Red and White forces, and the final pacification of the new Soviet state’s frontiers. The second sub-series examines the period 1921—1931, with special emphasis on Lenin’s illness and death, the struggle for the succession, Stalin’s rise to power, the launching of the first Five-Year Plan, and the collectivization of agriculture. The final Soviet sub-series chronicles the development of Stalinist centralized autocracy during the 1930s. There is much documentation on the Soviet budget and financial system, foreign trade, the 1933 famine and its social and political repercussions, the use of the secret police to destroy all opposition to the implementation of central planning, the development of Soviet industry, the terror of the Great Purges, and the direction of Soviet military and foreign affairs on the eve of World War II.

THE SOVIET UNION: 1945–1954

Much of the nature of the Soviet Union today is probably still rooted in this crucial 1945–1954 period: the ravages of the Great War, even now but poorly known, and the postwar disciplining and purging of the society in a manner more efficient and pernicious than during the Great Purges. These State Department files provide glimpses into these processes, glimpses of immense value because of the relative paucity of other sources and the continued silence of the Soviet authorities on so many subjects of that era. This microfilm should be acquired by every serious university and public library.

Russia Gathers Her Jews

The Origins of the "Jewish Question" in Russia, 1772–1825

JOHN KLIER

Klier offers an important new analysis of Russia's early acquisition of, attitudes toward, and administration of its Jewish population. Incorporating archival evidence and the perspectives of recent scholarship, he argues that the Russian response to the Jewish Question was based less on a tradition of religious antipathy than on the failure to develop a consistent, well-articulated policy in the face of a new and unusual problem. This failure led to ineffective social legislation and became the legacy of Russia's first encounter with the Jews.

Moral Apostasy in Russian Literature

GEORGE J. GUTSCHE

In this insightful commentary on works by Pushkin, Turgenev, Tolstoi, Gor'kii, Pasternak, and Solzhenitsyn, Gutsche explores the theme of moral apostasy—the situation in which characters reject reigning values and conventional morality, appealing instead to a higher ethical code. Setting his analysis of each work against the background of moral neutrality, he uses a variety of critical challenges to show how each work presents challenges to moral commonplaces.

Nobility and Privilege in Late Imperial Russia

SEYMOUR BECKER

The transformation of the Russian nobility between 1861 and 1914 has often been attributed to the anachronistic attitudes of its members and their failure to adapt to social change. Becker challenges this idea of "the decline of the nobility." He argues that the privileged estate responded positively to change and greatly influenced their nation's political and economic destiny.

Elysian Fields

A Book of Memory

V. S. YANOFSKY

Elysian Fields is a fascinating remembrance of the lives of Russian exiles in Paris between the wars. In his beautifully rendered memoir, Yanovsky vividly portrays the Russian emigrés and recaptures that air of bittersweet freedom so characteristic of Russian Paris.

Exclusive US Dealer of Contemporary Art from the USSR

A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY IN THE ARTS

International Images has been the exclusive U.S. representative of contemporary artists from the USSR since 1978. The diverse art created by Soviet artists has gained prominence at numerous exhibitions throughout the United States and Canada, as well as at frequent shows in our Pittsburgh-area gallery.

Dr. Elena Kornetchuk, the founder and owner of the gallery, selects the artists to be represented in the United States. Her knowledge and experience as one of the US foremost experts on art from the Soviet Union is apparent in her choice of artworks. Her highly original collection ranges from the traditional masters of the Soviet Union to the younger generations' most experimental creations. These artists, in many cases, are renowned not only in the USSR but also in Europe and other areas of the world.

Collectors, art critics and curators alike have been impressed by the wide range of artistic interpretation and the excellence of artistic technique by artists from the USSR. In part these emerge from a rich multi-national culture which has nurtured creative traditions in the Soviet Union. From the fifteen republics comes a tapestry of varied styles, themes and traditions which, together, comprise the nation's contemporary art.

One of International Images most important goals is to enhance awareness by the American public of the unique quality of contemporary art from the USSR. International Images over the years has participated in a variety of exhibitions: curated museum shows, university exhibits, benefit shows for non-profit organizations, international expositions and, of course, shows in other commercial galleries. We organize and provide documentation for exhibitions featuring: (a) individual artists, (b) schools of art, (c) separate national art schools and (d) a wide variety of group exhibitions, stressing different styles or techniques. Please contact us with a proposal, if you are interested in an exhibition of contemporary art from the USSR in your area. We can tailor an exhibition to your specific needs.

By JOHN BARTH URBAN. “This is a book that will stand for years as the definitive treatment of one of the most interesting and revealing relationships within what used to be called the international Communist movement.”—Donald L. M. Blackmer, MIT. $14.95 paper; $42.50 cloth

PIPELINE POLITICS
The Complex Political Economy of East-West Energy Trade
By BRUCE W. JENTLESON. “A clear analysis of changing U.S. policy, and a lively and convincing contribution to the literature on economic sanctions and East-West political economy.”—Angela E. Stent, Georgetown University. (Cornell Studies in Political Economy.) $29.95

POWER, PURPOSE, AND COLLECTIVE CHOICE
Economic Strategy in Socialist States
Edited by ELLEN COMISSO and LAURA D’ANDREA TYSON. In this path-breaking volume, thirteen noted political scientists and economists examine the various foreign economic strategies adopted by East European nations to combat the international economic disturbances of the 1970s and 1980s. (Cornell Studies in Political Economy.) $14.95 paper; $39.50 cloth
REVOLUTION ON THE VOLGA
1917 in Saratov
By DONALD J. RALEIGH. “Raleigh writes lucidly, even eloquently; his re-search is unexceptionable; the topic is important. Scholars and students of modern Russia will surely welcome this book.”—Abraham Ascher, Graduate Center, CUNY. (Studies in Soviet History and Society.) 20 black-and-white illustrations. $32.50

DOSTOEVSKY AND SOVIET FILM
Visions of Demonic Realism
By N. M. LARY. This fascinating new book blends three major motifs with ease and elegance: an analysis of all films produced in the Soviet Union which used Dostoevsky’s fiction; a history of the Soviet film industry; and an exploration of the dual challenge of art and politics which Soviet film has consistently had to face. 20 illustrations. $24.95

RESEARCH GUIDE TO THE
RUSSIAN AND SOVIET CENSUSES
Edited by RALPH S. CLEM. Taken together, the Russian census of 1897 and the Soviet censuses of 1926, 1959, 1970, and 1979 constitute the largest collection of empirical data available on that country. This volume is both a guide to the use of and a detailed index to these censuses. (Studies in Soviet History and Society.) $37.50

MARXISM IN THE USSR
A Critical Survey of Current Soviet Thought
By JAMES P. SCANLAN. “At the heart of Scanlan’s book is a rigorous discussion of Marxian dialectic. . . . His book is a delight to read and is without rival in its field.”—Times Higher Education Supplement. $14.95

RUSSIAN FORMALISM
A Metapoetics
By PETER STEINER. “Steiner conducts a crisp, metapoetical analysis of the diverse phenomenon of Russian Formalism in an attempt to identify what united, and unites, the work of scholars such as Viktor Shklovsky, Yury Tynyanov, Roman Jakobson, Boris Eykjenbaum, and Boris Tomashevsky.” —Times Literary Supplement. $9.95

COMMUNIST POLITICAL SYSTEMS
An Introduction
Stephen White, John Gardner and George Schöpflin
Three leading specialists trace the emergence of communist-ruled states and outline the ways in which their politics have been interpreted; analyze and compare the political, economic and social performance of these states with that of the major non-communist countries; and present a detailed guide to the governmental structures, power machinery, and policy processes of each nation.

“Each author is an expert in his field and this is reflected in the crisp, incisive discussion of major issues . . . This is a valuable book.”

Mayakovsky’s Cubo-Futurist Vision
Juliette R. Stapanian

Mayakovsky’s early poems are full of word play and ambiguous imagery. Stapanian eloquently walks the reader through the lyrics and places them side by side with analogues in the visual arts.
“Dr. Stapanian’s study offers not only valuable pieces of textual hermeneutics but also a very close look at the state of mind of a modernist artist during that relatively brief period when verbal and visual art were engaged in a vigorous process of cross-fertilization.” (Victor Terras) 225 pp., illus., $27.95 cloth.

The Soviet Union and the Challenge of the Future
edited by Alexander Shtromas and Morton A. Kaplan

This unique work should mark the transition of Soviet and communist studies to a new stage of imaginative scholarship where the answers to questions of the present are sought in organic unity with the answers to the questions of the future.

Never before have the problems of the Soviet Union been discussed in such a comprehensive manner with the singular view of evaluating the USSR's political stability and viability. Will the Soviet system be able to muddle through or will it collapse? What would the alternative political system in Russia be like, or what systemic changes would the Soviet system have to accept in order to survive? These issues are discussed by more than eighty leading experts in the fields of Soviet politics, society, economy, and culture.

"It... will not be a work of narrow specialization, but of broadly based, diversely grounded scholarship. It will disabuse even the well-informed but non-expert readers of various stereotypical views of the Soviet regime and the complex world it dominates."

Acting Director
Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies

The recent Eastern European cinema has been characterized by a sure sense of realism, humanism, historical awareness, and social analysis. Boasting some of the best and most famous film schools in the world, Eastern Europe's film are consistently marked by impeccable craftsmanship and technical brilliance. However—as the presence of such uncategorizable giants as Andrzej Wajda, Andrei Tarkovsky, Dusan Makevejev, Miklos Jansco, and Kryzysztof Zanussi should indicate—Eastern European Cinema also has dimensions which reach far beyond that of finely-crafted realism. The best Eastern European films rarely indulge in explicit or militant ideology (indeed, much less so than leftist films from other Communist and even non-Communist countries.) If anything, the political situation has induced Eastern European filmmakers to evolve an extraordinary talent for subtlety, irony, and inflection, which has resulted in some of the most complex, multilayered, and allusive works in recent film history.

"I welcome the arrival of EAST EUROPEAN REPORTER and regard its output as a further positive step towards promoting greater mutual information, cooperation and solidarity among the independent initiatives in Eastern Europe. It provides those in the West taking an active interest in Eastern European problems with a well-informed picture of the situation in the Soviet bloc countries."

— VA CLAV H AVEL. Playwright

"Western specialists have long needed a journal which describes and analyses developments in several East Central European countries in a comparative framework. Independent intellectuals in those countries have felt that need even more acutely. Drawing largely on independent sources in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, EAST EUROPEAN REPORTER is a pioneering attempt to tackle this vital task."

— TIMOTHY GARTON ASH.

EAST EUROPEAN REPORTER offers extensive coverage of human rights activity in Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia. It also provides detailed analyses of political, economic, social and cultural developments, both within their national and wider East European context. Unlike most Western publications on Eastern Europe, the REPORTER relies primarily on documentation issued in these three countries and also offers its pages to East European thinkers for mutual exchange of ideas and experience.
