“Civic Education in CEE/NIS: A Decade of Development”

TEACHING OPPORTUNITIES

The Civic Education Project (CEP), a private voluntary educational organization dedicated to assisting reform efforts at universities in Eastern Europe and the NIS, is now accepting applications for 2000-2001 for its Visiting Lecturer and Eastern Scholar programs. Visiting Lecturers teach social science courses in English and collaborate with local colleagues on curriculum development and outreach projects. Apply by February 15, 2000. The Eastern Scholar program supports scholars from the region who have studied at a western-accredited university and wish to pursue an academic career in their home countries. Apply by March 1, 2000.

The following issues of The Donald W. Treadgold Papers are now available (international orders add $1.00, WA residents add 8.6% sales tax):

Nationalism, Populism, and Other Threats to Liberal Democracy in Post-Communist Europe
Vladimir Tismaneanu ($5.25)
Vladimir Tismaneanu outlines the varieties of nationalism in Central and Eastern Europe and argues that while civic/liberal nationalism prevailed in the first stage after 1989, ethnic/illiberal nationalism has prevailed in the second stage.

Serb Lobbyists in the United Kingdom
Carole Hodge ($6.50)
Carole Hodge's study details and documents the role that Serb lobbyists have played in the formation of recent British foreign policy in the Balkans, from the war in Slovenia, Croatia, and Bosnia to the conflict in Kosovo during 1998-1999.

The Formation of Post-Soviet International Politics of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, and Uzbekistan
Rafis Abazov ($6.50)
Rafis Abazov assesses the formation of foreign policy in three post-Soviet Republics of Central Asia, focusing on the perception of security issues by the local policy making elites.

Amy Knight ($6.50)
Amy Knight discusses the growing role that the security services, successors to the KGB, have had in the Russian political process, how they have hindered the democratic process, and why the Russian leadership has allowed this to happen.

A ten issue subscription is available for $45 ($55 international), although orders received after 15 December will be $55 ($65 intl). Orders for individuals must be accompanied by a check payable in US$ to UW. Send orders to the attention of the Managing Editor at:

Adapting to Modernity
Family, Caste and Capitalism among the Baltic German Nobility
(Ostmitteleuropa in Vergangenheit und Gegenwart, Band 22)

"Adapting to Modernity" is a study of the response of the Baltic German nobility to the economic, social and political challenges of modernization. The Baltic German nobility was a narrow caste that ruled the native people of the area that is today Latvia and Estonia from the thirteenth century through the end of World War One, finding for themselves a special place under successive rulers and empires. The book also presents a study of the practice and policies of Russian imperialism in the most European region of the Russian Empire. It examines how this particular colonial society functioned in the larger framework of Russia’s imperial structure and responded to the challenges posed by the Empire’s shift from a transnational ecumenical imperialism to one based on a narrow Russian ethnic and cultural imperialism. In the process the work explains how a tiny colonial class within the Empire maintained its hold over a far larger native population and how it developed the practices and traditions that allowed it to preserve its privileged position, how the image of family both reflected and supported the colonial nobility’s selfimage and ruling position.

"Godless Communists"
Atheism and Society in Soviet Russia, 1917–1932
William B. Husband

"Elegantly written . . . extraordinarily rich, complex, and far-ranging." — Gregory Freeze, Brandeis University

Husband provocatively redefines the role of religion in Russian culture and society, drawing on a variety of sources to show how, amid strident contention between activist believers and militant atheists, the majority integrated their feelings toward religion and atheism with other, nonspiritual concerns.

Russia's Workers in Transition
Labor, Management, and the State under Gorbachev and Yeltsin
Paul T. Christensen

"Original, provocative, and deeply empirical . . . recasts the international discussion about transitions to democracy and capitalism." — Valerie Bunce, Cornell University

This timely study compares the labor policies of Gorbachev and Yeltsin as each attempted to come to grips with the Soviet economic legacy.

Working the Rough Stone
Freemasonry and Society in Eighteenth-Century Russia
Douglas Smith

"The best work on Russian Freemasonry. . . . Interesting and convincing." — Gary Marker, SUNY Stony Brook

In this first study of eighteenth-century Russian Freemasonry to appear in English, Smith reveals Freemasonry to have been a powerful instrument for social change.

Series in Eastern European Studies

The War in Chechnya
STASYS KNEZYS
ROMANAS SEDLICKAS

Chechnya has struggled for independence from Russia for three centuries. In this extensive study the authors detail the recent war and discuss the weapons and tactics involved. They present the strengths and weaknesses of both sides and consider how the mighty Russian army failed to subdue the Chechen forces. “Well done” to the authors for producing a first-rate work...—Frederick Quinn, author of Democracy at Dawn. 384 pp. 1 line drawing, 26 maps. Bib. Index. $32.95

The New Elite in Post-Communist Eastern Europe
EDITED BY VLADIMIR SHLAPENTOKH,
CHRISTOPHER VANDERPOOL, AND BORIS DOKTOROV

After the Soviet Union collapsed, dominant elites gained control of the political, economic, cultural, and scientific institutions of the new states. This work contains observations by members of nearly every post-Soviet republic, resulting in a global effort to define post-Communist society. 352 pp. 53 tables. Index. $44.95

Gorbachev’s Glasnost
The Soviet Media in the First Phase of Perestroika
JOSEPH GIBBS

Mikhail Gorbachev embraced glasnost, or “openness,” as necessary to reconstruct the Soviet Union’s sagging economy and inefficient government. Gibbs examines how glasnost changed in definition and application between 1985 and 1988 and details how Gorbachev’s political agenda irrevocably changed Soviet society. 160 pp. Bib. Index. $27.95

American Foreign Policy and Yugoslavia, 1939–1941
IVO TASOVAC

Royal Yugoslavia’s existence until its collapse in 1941 was a political nightmare. As a result of Winston Churchill’s and Franklin Roosevelt’s shared eagerness for suppression of Germany, the war and ensuing Communist takeover of Eastern Europe were inevitable. Tasovac analyzes Roosevelt’s policies and demonstrates that the United States unwittingly sowed the seeds for this decade’s war in the Balkans. 256 pp. Bib. Index. Apps. $39.95

The Russian Archives on microfilm

In an unprecedented arrangement with the Federal Archival Service (FAS) of the Russian Federation, Primary Source Media, an imprint of the Gale Group, has been granted permission to microfilm collections from the largest and most closely guarded Russian Archives.

Until recently, these archival collections have been largely inaccessible to scholars in the west. They are crucial to the study of Russian culture, history, economics and social structure.

These collections are the first in a long-term, cooperative publishing arrangement between Primary Source Media and the Russian Archives.

Mark Von Hagen, Professor of History and the Director of the Harriman Institute at Columbia University is supporting Primary Source Media as Senior Editorial Adviser. In Moscow, Viktor P Danilov, Senior Research Scholar at the Russian Academy of Sciences, is guiding the selection of Russia’s most significant archives.

The Russian Peasantry on the Eve of Collectivization: The Dynamic (Cluster) Census of Peasant Farms in the 1920s

The Russian State Economic Archive (RGAE)

The published files, of which all are in Cyrillic, of the Dynamic Censuses undertaken contain:

- raw census data such as household cards, community forms and land commune forms
- summary tables and tapes

Research that can be undertaken as a result of studying this collection:

- comparison of changing population rates
- research into the social history of the early Soviet period
- insight into the application of Marxist theory to the later censuses of 1927 and 1929 and information concerning rural social structures.

 Intercepted Correspondence of Russian Revolutionaries from the Special Department of the Police 1906-1917

The State Archive of the Russian Federation (GARF)

This important archive offers insight into the logistics, organization and temperament of the socialist uprising and of the police efforts to infiltrate and thwart insurrection.
