East-West Symbolic Language of Dreams, Myths, Legends, Iconography, and Poetry

Keynote Address by Steve McCarty
LuzDelMes Tri-Anthology Virtual Conference 2020 – via Zoom
Treasure Coast, Florida: November 1, 2020, 9:00-10:00 a.m. ET

The ancient intuitive language of images is still within us. People have always lived myths and taken lessons from legends. The lore and iconography of the Pilgrimage of Shikoku provide vivid examples. Poetry relies on metaphors, while true haiku communicate through nature symbolism.

Participants may add further international and comparative examples, such as Greek myths or Indian divinities adopted throughout Asia.

Steve McCarty was born in Boston and became a full Professor in Japan. He currently lectures for Osaka Jogakuin University and the Japanese government international agency JICA. Since 1998 he is President of the World Association for Online Education. He is a highly cited author on e-learning, bilingualism, language teaching, Japan, Asia, and academic life.

To participate, confirm your time zone, on November 1st from 9:00 a.m. U.S. Eastern time, which is 10 p.m. Japan time, 6:30 p.m. India time, etc.
